DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 4 and 6 recite the limitation "the first and second information" in determination step for determining whether....according to the first and second information based on the count information of the countdown IF counting step. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Furthermore, the Applicant fails to define what are the first and second information about in the claims?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-2, 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lee et al. (US 7,076,221 B2).

Regarding claim 1, Lee discloses an IF counter for counting IF signal (abstract) for a prescribed time period (window period) (column 2 lines 26-54) or counting value for a predetermined time (column 3 line 17), comprising: upper limit presetting for providing a desired upper limit of a count value as an initial value (setting a preset value "c", for example) at the time of count (column 2 lines 54-67, column 5 line 41 to column 6 line 18); IF counting time period determination for determining a time period during which the IF signals are counted (column 2 lines 26-67); countdown IF counting for counting down (column 3 lines 22-23,) the initial valued preset of the upper limit presetting for the time period determined in the IF count time period determination by the count value (column 3 lines 6-23, column 5 line 41 to column 6 line 18); IF count limit difference presetting for providing information about a difference between desired upper and lower limits of the count value (column 2 lines 45-53, column 5 line 41 to column 6 line 18); comparing the information about the difference between the IF count limit values provided in the IF count limit difference presetting with information based on count information of the countdown IF counting (column 4 lines 42-59, column 5 lines 13-22, column 5 line 38 to column 6 line 18); and determining whether the count value is between the desired upper and lower limits according to information based on the count information of the countdown IF counting and a result of the comparison (column 5 line 40 to column 7 line 8, column 8 line 20-67).

Regarding claim 2, Lee further disclose the information is lower-order m bits of count information in the countdown IF counting and higher-order bits of the count information (column 3 lines 3-5, column 5 line 46 to column 6 line 40, column 8 lines 27-47).

Regarding independent claims 4-6, these claims comprise limitations as claimed in independent claim 1, therefore, these claims are rejected for the same reason as set forth in claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lee et al. (US 7,076,221).

Regarding claim 3, Lee further discloses dividing frequency by the ratio of 160 (column 7 lines 18-19, 35-37, and 54-64). However, Lee fails to teach a dividing ratio as claimed.

It should be noted that a frequency divider used in a communication device as taught by Lee obvious can be divided one of dividing ratios as claimed which is known to those skilled in the art for obtaining a desired frequency in order to improve the system performance. Furthermore, it is well known in the communication art, one of frequency dividing ratios $1/2$, $1/4$, .. $1/32$ can be used in a communication receiver.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kimura (4, 291,414) and Close (3,753,119), each discloses an IF counter for counting IF signals that is similar with the Applicant's invention (see abstract, and description).
